Smiles

By DR. BERTHOLD A. BAER

The last place you would expect to find, and endeavor to create, a smile is at an undertaker's. Yet that is exactly what The Funeral Church, Broadway at 66th Street, is trying to do. He is a benefactor of mankind who can produce a smile where there were only tears before. Suffering makes kinsmen of us all. To relieve the grief-stricken, to create forgetfulness, to plant hope in desolate hearts, to bring a smile upon quivering lips, is a rare privilege. All this is achieved by Mr. Frank E. Campbell, founder of The Funeral Church, and repeated every day, over and over again. Not because he does lighten the burdens of those bowed down in grief does Mr. Campbell deserve the thanks of mankind, but because he helps them to be strong to shoulder their burdens.

A funeral service arranged by Mr. Frank E. Campbell is a service of love, of happy memories.

Revolutionists has been outlawed by the Bolsheviki, and while Allied intervention was in progress made no attempts to wipe out the Bolshevik chieftains.

With the end of Allied intervention, it is understood, the party considers itself once more from to engage in combat with the Bolsheviki, with the same means and weapons with which it fought Czarism. While some of the members of the "fighting brigade" are now abroad, preparing plans of action against the Bolsheviki, the principal leaders, headed by Gotz and Rudneff, are in Russia directing the campaign.

"Judging by the information in our possession," said Mr. Malisheffsky yesterday, "we may expect more news of assanssination of heads of the Bolshevik government in the mear future."
